Spectacular Fire Damages Firms, Draws Big Crowd

A spectacular fire at 6 o'clock Monday night on Main Street in the business district destroyed a used furniture store and caused slight damage to four other firms.

Heaviest loss was suffered by the Jones Used Furniture Store, between 10th and 11th Streets on Main. All furniture in the building was a complete loss.

Bennett's Radiator Shop, next door to the furniture store, was slightly damaged by fire. Peerless Cleaners and Portor Upholstery Shop suffered water damage. Benton Auto Exchange lost some front windows.

Many Witness Fire

The fire attracted a large portion of Benton's population, and the crowd stayed until the flames were brought under control about 8 o'clock.

Robert Leneave discovered the fire, and turned in the alarm. Flames were shooting from the rear roof of the furniture store when the alarm sounded.

A dead battery on the city's big fire truck delayed volunteer firemen, and the flames had enveloped the entire furniture store before water was available.

For a short time, most of the spectators felt that five business buildings would be destroyed.

As soon as the hose lines were laid and firemen started pouring water on the flames, however, it was evident that only the furniture store would be destroyed.

While firemen were laying the hose lines, volunteers removed all of the clothing from Peerless Cleaners and the automobiles from the Benton Auto Exchange.

On the outside walls of the furniture store and the radiator shop were left standing after the flames had been extinguished.

Cause of the fire was not determined, but it was thought that defective electrical wiring might have started the blaze.

Owned by Clint Wyatt

The building housing the furniture store and radiator shop is owned by Clint Wyatt, of Baltimore, Md., a former Benton resident. Murlin Wyatt of Benton talked by long distance telephone with his uncle in Baltimore.

'55 Wheat Acreage Allotment Rules Have Been Changed

On Sept. 15, the Secretary of Agriculture eliminated the "total acreage allotment" provision from the program to influence the use of acres diverted from allotment crops in 1955, Charles R. Rash Jr., chairman of the agricultural stabilization and conservation state committee, announced.

If the 1955 wheat acreage allotment determined for the farm is less than 15 acres, the producer must conform with the actual allotment as well as with all other allotments to be eligible for price support on wheat.

However, any producer who has exceeded the wheat allotment established for his farm, but has not exceeded 15 acres, will be eligible for price support on all other allotment crops provided all such other allotments has not been exceeded.

Mr. Rash further added that under law to be eligible to receive cost-sharing under the provisions of the 1955 agricultural conservation, all acreage allotments must be complied with, including wheat allotments of less than 15 acres.

For further information concerning wheat acreage, please contact the Marshall County ASC Office, located in the Ferguson building, Benton.

The Farm FRONT-

By J. HOMER MILLER
County Farm Agent

The District 4-H Achievement Day will be held in Paducah on Saturday, Oct. 2. Thirteen boys and girls will attend from this county.

Raymond Powell will appear on the 4-H program as a leader from this county. It will be a panel discussion by leaders, 4-H members, and representatives from Lexington.

The 4-H Clubs are being re-organized for the new year by Mr. Brinkley, assistant county agent. All boys and girls are urged to become a member of the largest youth organization in America.

Many farmers are seeding grasses and legumes for pasture and meadow. They may be seeded alone or with small grain. The Hession fly free date for sowing wheat is Oct. 15.

Many farm tools have already been used for the last time for the year. They should be cleaned and oiled before storing for the winter. A little work now may save labor next spring getting tools in a workable condition.

Lou Norwood and son, Charles, plan to build a tool shed this fall. This will give them a place to store farm implements throughout the year. More tools rust out than are worn out.

Mrs. Jiggs McGregor of Route 7 attended the Morgan rites in Benton Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Carmel Byers of Hardin Route 1 were shoppers in town Saturday.

Social Security Benefits to Be Increased on Oct. 1st

Increases in Social Security payments ranging from $5 to $13.50 will go into effect for millions of Americans on Oct. 1 under a law recently passed by the Congress, according to Senator John Sherman Cooper.
 "In addition," Senator Cooper said, "Social Security benefits will be extended to approximately 10 million new persons throughout the country, including farmers and certain professional people."
 It is estimated by the Senator that increased benefits will be awarded to 103,000 persons in Kentucky and that approximately 200,000 additional persons in Kentucky will qualify for Social Security coverage when the extension goes into effect on Jan. 1, 1955.
 The Senator estimates that the increases will give persons now receiving Social Security in Kentucky an additional $5,750,000 per year. The new law is in line with the recommendations made to the Congress by President Eisenhower earlier this year.
 Senator Cooper summarized the principal features of the new law as follows:
 (1) Extension of coverage to 10 million more people throughout the country.
 (2) Increase in benefits to persons already receiving Social Security payments and to persons who will become eligible in the future.
 (3) Liberalization of the retirement tests.
 (4) Preservation of the insurance rights of persons who become permanently and totally disabled prior to their reaching 65 years of age.
 Senator Cooper urges anyone with a question about the new Social Security coverage to write to his office in the Senate Office Building, Washington, D. C., for further information.

Ky. Dam Village Is Still Top Attraction Of All State Parks

Frankfort—Kentucky's State Parks registered record-shattering attendance figures during the last fiscal period, bettering last year's attendance by almost 10 percent.

A report issued by Conservation Commissioner Henry Ward showed an estimated 3,573,000 persons visited the state's 24 parks and shrines during the 1953-54 fiscal year. The figure for 1952-53 was 3,261,500.

The current figure is almost ten times the estimated attendance at state parks in 1947-48, when an expanded park system was just being started by the state. The figure for that year was 373,589.

Kentucky Dam Village, Giletsville, continued to be the most-visited park in the system with some 1,350,000 visitors. This figure includes visitors to Kentucky Dam, Kentucky Lake State Park, near Hardin, attracted 650,000 guests, and Cumberland Falls State Park, Corbin, ranked third in the system with approximately 325,000 visitors during the year.

PROCLAMATION TO ALL TO WHOM THESE PRESENTS SHALL COME:

WHEREAS, the President of the United States and the Governor of the State have proclaimed Oct. 3-9, 1954, as Fire Prevention Week; and

WHEREAS, fire takes more lives than any disease and fire destroys more property than any other disaster; and

WHEREAS, in Kentucky, fire claimed the lives of one hundred and fifty-eight people, injured more than one thousand and destroyed property worth more than $16,302,158 during the past year; and

WHEREAS, since the majority of fire losses are the direct result of human carelessness, it is imperative that citizens be aware of this danger which perils our homes, churches, schools, forests, industries and places of entertainment;

NOW, THEREFORE, I, Louis O'Daniel, Mayor of the City of Benton, do hereby proclaim the week of October 3-9, 1954, as FIRE PREVENTION WEEK IN BENTON, KENTUCKY.

And urge all organizations to conduct programs for fire safety.

Louis O'Daniel, Mayor.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Ivey and son left Sunday for their home in Detroit after spending a week with the Trule Wyatts and the Curtis Iveys, their parents.

Scripture: Job 1-2; 19-23. Devotional Reading: Romans 8:33-39.

Man's Eternal 'Why'

Lesson for October 3, 1954

DURING the next three months the "uniform" series dealt with in this column, are drawn from the wisdom and the worship of the ancient Hebrews, as found in those four not too well known books, Job, Proverbs, Psalms and Ecclesiastes. Parts of all but the first of these are known by heart everywhere, but much of them is unfamiliar territory. It would be a good idea during these three months to read these four books from start to finish. An average of two and a half chapters a day would do it. Why not?

More Questions Than Answers

It is a sort of well-worn saying of preachers that the Bible has the answers to life's questions. But there is one book in the Bible that has more questions than answers: the book of Job. It is one of the greatest books in the world, and it will always appeal to men everywhere, because it puts in a powerful way the very questions that the best people ask. Job himself was one of these "best people." He is called "blameless and upright, one who feared God and turned away from evil." God even speaks of him with some pride. But Job did not have all the answers, though he had most of the questions. His best friends thought, and no doubt he himself used to think, that suffering is always a sign that God is punishing the sinner. This idea is still a common one. But Job felt there must be something wrong with it, for he felt a victim to disasters he would not have wished on his worst enemy. He lost his fortune (which was in cattle), his workmen and his family, all within a few days, and finally he lost his health.

His friends thought they understood this. Suffering, they thought, was a sure sign of sin, so Job must have been a great sinner. In his intentions at least. But Job knew better. He knew he had not been a great sinner. So he raised the great "WHY?" that men before him and after him have raised. Why does God let good people suffer?

"But There is No Justice"

It is not the mere painfulness of the world that weighs on us. It is the apparent unfairness of things. Pain and affliction that is "coming to" people does not bother our minds much, not even when it hits us ourselves. If you have a toothache and you know it is because you have indulged in too much candy and soft foods, but you know, all the same, that you have nothing to cry about. You had it coming. If a cruel and murderous kidnapper dies in the gas chamber you do not feel great sympathy for him. You may even feel that no legal punishment can hurt him as much as he has hurt others. But if a good friend of yours dies of cancer, you do feel keen distress, because you cannot believe that your friend has earned such pain. And if you lift your eyes and look out over the world, especially if you know something about history, you will see so much frustration of the good, so much prospering of evil, down through the centuries, that you wonder sometimes how men can believe there is a God.

"I Seek . . . But I Cannot See"

If the woes of the world give us slight concern, selfish as we are by nature, we do wake up when trouble walks through our own doors. There must have been a good many people in trouble whom Job had known, but it took his own calamities to jolt him awake. We gather from his friends' remarks that he could speak cheerfully to those in distress, but when he was in trouble, he sang a sadder tune. Just when he needed most to talk with God, God did not seem to be anywhere near. The world is a puzzle to every man, but the good man, the believer in God, can sometimes be more puzzled by it than any one else. Because the believer feels that the world ought not to be like this, he is all the more distressed by what he sees. The better he is, the more he believes in God, the more distressed he is. It was Job who asked the terrible questions, not his weakly pious friends. Yet — Job did not "fold his hands and acquiesce."
